BABY MINNIE.

She came from Heaven downward—
This little winsome thing—
Just like a pretty feather,
Plucked from an angel's wing.

I know some angel's pinions
Have folded wings;
I know some cherub artists
Made dimples in her chin.

I know the little azure
That fills her bashful eyes
Was caught there when she lifted
The canopy of skies.

May God bless little Minnie,
And may her tiny feet
Find on life's weary marches,
The paths with flowers sweet.

And when life's day is ended—
When comes its final eve—
May angel watchfolds show her
The pathway back to Heaven.

THE TWIN SISTERS.

"Well," said Ned Arelington, "for my part I have never loved but one woman, and she is now my better-half."
"I tell you," replied a fellow stage-coacher, "you have had an easy courtship. Now, I am compelled to love two ladies."

"Two ladies?"
"Yes, sir, two ladies."
"But you did not love them both alike?"
"Now, stranger, there was just the trouble. I was thinking of this precise difficulty when I remarked you had an easy courtship."

"You puzzle me," exclaimed Ned. "Suppose you relieve our minds by a rehearsal."
"It will afford me pleasure and you entertainment," rejoined the handsome and social fellow-traveler.

Here we leaned forward, intent on hearing how a man was compelled to love two ladies with the same degree of fervor.

"My friends," said he, "if you ever visit New Haven, Connecticut, you will hear these expressions: 'As much alike as the Grover girls,' or this: 'You can no more distinguish them than you can tell Sue from Hannah Grover.' I say, ladies and gentlemen, when a New Havener is discussing a point of similitude he is sure to refer to the Grover girls."

"I had been in the Elm City six weeks before I heard the comparisons. I went to this place intending to enter a business firm. On my arrival I stopped at the Tontine. At this hotel two gentlemen were arguing a point of law; it was then I first heard this language. One speaker was proving that expressions meant but the same thing, and paralleled the two propositions with the notorious twins."

"Now there is one thing I have in common with women—that is curiosity. I own it, and will confess that I was on nettles. Never could I be appeased until I had a view of the females."

"Tell me," said I to the book-keeper, are these Grover girls so very much alike?"
"Are they?" said he, "in surprise. Well, I will tell you, Mr. Miller, if you can distinguish them after a week's acquaintance, I will pay your bill at this house for the balance of your residence."

"How can I see them?"
"I'll tell you. Observe that bright-looking gent with the white hair. That is Mr. Potter, one of our rising lawyers, an introduction to him, and he will see you through."

"Are these ladies of good standing?"
"Oh! among our first people."
"Can Mr. Potter distinguish them?"
"Never, sir, never; and he looks with the eye of a detective."

"How long has he known them?"
"Three or four years, to my certain knowledge. It may be longer."

"This determined me. I soon established myself with the lawyer by retaining him in an important case. I found him more than willing to afford the introduction, as he was anxious to see the fix their identity never failed to create in a stranger. I will not forget the first interview. Two exquisitely beautiful ladies of twenty entered the room, I held duplicates. One was the precise copy of the other. They dressed alike, to a ribbon and a ring. Their voices and countenances gave no clue. Then their motions left you none the wiser."

"Said Potter: 'Now take a good look, for I wish to see if you can identify them.'"
"Mr. Potter," said I, "you will embarrass the ladies."

"Not at all," said one. "We are used to this," said the other. "It is the great amusement afforded by our resemblance." Here both spoke, but on honor, it all sounded like one voice.

"Ladies," said I, "pardon me; I know you are not horses, but allow me to look at your teeth."

"I desired this, deeming there would be found some little speck, indentation, or irregularity that would ever serve as an index. They exhibited their pearly rows; but after a minute's investigation I was no better informed. I examined the finger-nails; then their hands; still I had no point of distinction, and I gave it up that Sue and Hannah might forever exchange places without distinction on my part."

"The ridiculous blunders of admirers were frequent. Mantua-makers, shoe-makers, and tradespeople in general, were continually presenting Sue an account created by Hannah, or telling Hannah some lingo intended only for the ears of Sue."

"The beauty of the ladies impressed me. They were of my style. An acquaintance of two months demonstrated their superiority in all respects. In brief, I found myself in love—with which one?"
"When tender ideas arose, I found it just as natural to one as to the other. Yes, I solemnly aver I was in love—I had the connubial article. I frequently took them out, yet never knew whom I had. If my lady would query Sue, I thought it clear I had Hannah, or if Hannah was mentioned, I believed I was hearing Sue. Indeed, it was a mere matter of faith. There was no evidence, for often one palmed herself on me as the other. This was a chronic dodge played on their various admirers to suit convenience and insure rest. As far as these gallants were concerned, it was immaterial. Although one might be called for by name, the other would do as well, no one being able to detect the difference.

"I often implored them to contradict themselves by some article of apparel or jewelry. But it was fruitless. 'That would spoil our fun,' they would exclaim, as though I meditated some terrible infliction.

"As I have told you, I was in love. I felt that my happiness depended on the possession of one of these twins. But for whom should I ask the parents? Honestly, it was no matter which one I had, as affection made no choice.

"On a lovely eve in September, one sister was from home. Now, thought I, here is a chance that I can talk a whole evening to one of this dual phenomenon. As she entered the parlor, said I:

"How do you do, Miss Hannah?"
"You are wrong, sir; it is Miss Sue."
"Are you humbugging?"
"Truly not; I tell you sincerely. You now address Sue Grover."

"I saw she looked unusually tender, and taking advantage of her flattering voice and tremulous manner, I declared my love, and she returned it with all the ardor of her true and impassioned nature. I summoned the old folks; told our devotion; gave prospects, and made all essential revelations. The senior Grovers gave us their blessings, and assured us that they would see our course of true love should run smooth."

"But what if that other girl were to come in? What a pretty mix! How would I ever know my girl? Though again, I assure you it would have made no difference. I would have proposed to Hannah just the same. My only trouble was in the multitude of embarrassments incident to no distinction.

"On this ground I had a genuine trouble. 'Before Hannah returned I invited Sue to take a walk in the green. When opposite the center of the church, I spoke of the betrothal ring, and requested her to please let me see the ring she wore. She took it off, and I carefully played with it, to throw her off her guard—then, calling her attention to a party of students, took my Congress knife and drew the blade through the inner part. It left a nice mark, and by this I hoped to identify her in future. On our return to the house I secretly posted her parents. They said that I did properly; that it was time that Sue should be recognized by her affianced."

"Why?" replied I.
"Oh!" rejoined she, "that ring game has been tried by a half dozen admirers. I suspected what you were at, but thought I would see how many heads would conceive the same plan."

"The next day neither she nor her sister wore a ring. One week after, they resumed them, but in neither was there a mark. It was evident that I was to be out-generaled, and would have to depend on the discretion of my intended, and the goodness of her parents."

"At parties I had several trials. I never knew whom I took home; and even, when home, would talk a flood of love to the wrong girl, and receive a laugh for my enthusiasm. 'Hang it!' said I, 'the cream of the joke is—I can't be revenged, for I might hurt the wrong lady.'"

"The betrothal ring was given. Now, thought I, there is a termination to my discomfort. Well, it did terminate in my twenty-four hours. Hannah took Sue's ring, went to a jewelry store, and ordered one precisely like it, and bearing the same inscription. Moreover, she charged him to see that the engraving was counterfeited beyond recognition, so that I could not tell which was which."

"I was done. So was I, now, what could I do? Had Sue been willing, I could have schemed forty devices. But she relished the dish, and would never co-operate. Wedding day came. I must take a young lady on the word of herself or parents. 'Well,' said I, 'mentally, so I get one of the girls, my object will be accomplished.'"

"The ceremony was performed before an immense throng, in the largest church in the city. The bridal dress fortunately enabled me to identify to one. Congratulations being over, my beautiful bride and I journeyed to Niagara, and inspected several Canadian cities and towns."

"Ah!" said I, lovingly, to my wife, Sue, darling, I will know you now."

"By the diamond ring," I replied.
"Don't be too sure, Clarence," rejoined she.
"Ah!" laughed I.

"Hannah will not annoy me any further."
"But, alas! for our earthly hopes. My beloved told her sister the name of the New York Importer, and on our return, a small head was proffered, on which a fac-simile of the bride's ring. Sue now went to her room, and attiring herself in one of the twin garbs, I was again unable to recognize my own wife."

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, business suddenly called me to New Orleans. While there, my measure died. I was grieved, yet from the fact that Hannah lived, my agony was but temporary."

"I returned two weeks after the funeral. My sister-in-law wore neither betrothal nor diamond ring. There was nothing to be gained by it, and they were laid aside. My friends, I am extremely sensitive, a mere child; yet, believe me, when I tell you that the presence of Hannah was a perfect and speedy restorative, I could not weep. Was she not the same as Sue in all respects? True, when I saw the family sad, I was troubled; but only on account of their grief. I had no grief of my own. All that I loved was in exact duplicate, and that moved before as of yore. Yes, I confess that no husband ever suffered less."

"In eighteen months, I stood in the same church, and it seemed before the same couple. As Hannah was given to me in the holy state of matrimony, it appeared that I was enacting a farce and remarrying my own wife."

The appointment of Hon. A. J. James as secretary of State is a most excellent one. Mr. James is a lawyer of fine ability, and is one of the best and purest men in the State. He is worthy of the best office in the Commonwealth, and there is no position the State could give him that he would not fill creditably to his self and to the interest of the public.

Governor Leslie has made a most judicious selection of a Chief Justice to supply the place made vacant by the resignation of Judge Robertson. Judge Rogers is a man of solid and powerful character, and has stood in the law and strong with the people. No Judge in Kentucky has made so bold a stand against salubrity, and he has joined to his hatred of violence a judicial moderation and knowledge which are worthy of all praise. We had expected and, indeed, could have wished, to see

The selection of Jno. H. Barret, of Henderson, as President of the E. H. & N. Railroad, to fill out the unexpired term of Gen. Boyle, deceased, gives much satisfaction to our people. He is a commercial capitalist of energy and solid information. Upright and honorable in all his dealings, Mr. B. enjoys the universal confidence of our people, and the interest of stockholders will not suffer, so far as lies in the power of the president at the road.

Uniontown Democrat.

The question then submitted to the Attorney General for his opinion must relate to the constitutionality of the Ku-Klux act. If that is the state of the case, it indicates a returning sense of regard for the Constitution, which has been the subject of Radical contempt for some years past. But how Mr. Akerman, the Attorney General, will decide, he has not let us know. He has only said that he has given his opinion, under oath, that, under the recent so-called amendments to the Federal Constitution, the character of the Government is completely changed from what it was under the old Constitution. States, hereafter, are to hold their autonomy only on good behavior and at the pleasure of Congress. That the States may, any time Congress chooses so to declare, be stripped of all their functions and remodeled tirely. At a meeting of the Reconstruction Committee of Congress, Mr. Akerman was present as witness. He then and there declared, under oath:

"In my judgment Congress, under the amendment of the Constitution, has the right to remodel the government of any State which fails to do justice as required under that article of the Constitution (14th).

Question—"Then it comes to this, that Congress may call a convention in any State to review and amend its Constitution?"

To which Mr. Akerman responded:

"I think so; I have no doubt of the fact that

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 9, 1871.

CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP.—On Wednesday Governor Leslie appointed Hon. Geo. C. Drake, as circuit judge of the 11th Judicial District, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. W. S. Pryor. Judge Drake has had the experience of six years in the same position as the predecessor of Judge Pryor. As will be seen, the Governor has issued his proclamation ordering an election on the 14th of October. We hear of a number of aspirants, of whom P. U. Major, Esq., and Hon. O. D. McManama, of Grant, are elsewhere announced as candidates.

DEXTER BADLY BEATEN.—When the report came to us that Goldsmith Maid had made such excellent time, beating Dexter's time by at least a quarter of a second, it was said that the track at Cold Springs was several feet short of a mile. Our telegraphic reports inform us that the track has been measured and is found to be sixty-nine feet over a mile.

Captain Luther Libby died at his residence in New Kent county, Virginia, on the 28th ult., aged sixty-five years. The famous Libby Prison at Richmond took its name from him, as the owner of the building.

A Yankee is making a great ado about his penny candy whistles, that whistle and create a taste for music.

Hon. O. D. McManama, candidate for Circuit Judge, will speak at Newcastle, Monday next, September 11th; and at Owenton on Monday, September 18th.

Our streets, says the Lexington Star, are filled with the strange faces of young men who are here to attend the next session of Kentucky University. There is every indication that the attendance during next session will be very large.

FAST STEPPING.—Goldsmith Maid is now Queen of the trotting turf, having trotted three mile heats in the wonderful time of 2:20, 2:17, and 2:20. Dexter's 2:17 is thus eclipsed, and Bonner must yield the palm or go "one better."

SHOOTING.—On Sunday evening Norton Rake had a difficulty with a negro boy. Rake shot the negro in the stomach. The wound is not serious. Rake, at an examining trial was held in $400 bond.

We are indebted to Alfred Gray, Esq., secretary of the State Agricultural Society of Kansas, for a complimentary ticket to attend the fair at Topeka, Kansas, on the 11th September.

THAT $100,000 OFFER.—We would like to hear very soon what Mr. Bonner proposes to do about his little proposition since Goldsmith Maid has filled the requirement. Guess that one of two things he must, back up or back down.

A State Guard Company has been organized in Winchester, with L. Hathaway as Captain, S. M. Boone first Lieutenant, and Thos. Stafford second Lieutenant.

TAKING TIME BY THE FORELOCK.—They are already talking about candidates for sheriff in Clark county. The election comes off next August.

COAL IN PENDLETON COUNTY.—We have at our office, says the Falmouth Independent, some specimens of Pendleton county coal, given to us by Mr. P. F. Keith, who says he thinks he has found it in sufficient quantities to insure success in mining. It resembles Cannon coal to some extent, and throws off heat when burned equal to that of the Youghiogheny.

Five hundred dollars reward is offered for the apprehension of John Russell, charged with the murder of Mr. Penly, of Butler county.

A screech owl, says the Glasgow Times, sings his lively evening song in the court-house yard these moonlight nights.

The distilleries of Union county are paying fifty cents for corn in the ear.

An extra train from Lexington to Paris on Thursday, carried six hundred passengers to the Bourbon Fair grounds.

A New York manufacturer of show-cards has "accurate portraits of oysters and clams."

It is painful to learn from the Mercury that Dr. Frank Conway, of Nicholas county, will attend the Bourbon Fair.

The world, according to the declaration of the Millerites, should have been destroyed by fire on last Sunday, the 3d inst. The world still exists.

The protracted drought has destroyed nearly all the shade trees planted in the court-house yard at Owensboro.

The Phantoms of the Nile, the most ancient, most exclusive, and most mysterious society on earth, exists in Lexington, Ky.

A writer in the Golden Age says, that Miss Kellogg sings "Sweet Home" as if she lived in a hotel.

The Carlisle Mercury announces the completion of the tunnel on the Paris and Maysville Railroad near that place.

The dispatches from the east inform us that a coolness exists between France and Italy.

News Depot.—The News Depot has been removed to the post-office, under Major Hall.

The season at Crab Orchard has about closed.

DEATH OF AALI PASHA, GRAND VIZIER OF TURKEY.—Aali Kebrashi Pasha, Grand Vizier of Turkey, and Minister of Foreign Affairs, died at Constantinople, on the 6th inst., at the age of fifty-six. He entered the public service when fifteen years old, and, when twenty-three years old, served as Charge d'Affaires in England. He then served one year as Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and, in 1841, at the age of twenty-six, was appointed Ambassador to England, which position he held until 1844, when he was recalled, and during the next eight years filled important positions at home. Among them, Minister of Foreign Affairs for several years. In 1852, he was Grand Vizier for a short time; in 1855, he represented the Porte at the Conference of Vienna. He took an active part in the Conference of Paris. For several years he was in and out of office, though most of the time in. In 1861, he, as Minister of Foreign Affairs, concluded a treaty of commerce with Great Britain. In May, 1864, he was President of the Conference of the Powers at which was signed the treaty of Paris, which was to determine the Roumanian affairs. He was the author of the Turkish circular note of 1866 to the Powers, respecting Candia. In February, 1867, he was again appointed Grand Vizier, which post he held until his death.

THE FASTEST TIME ON RECORD—DEXTER BEATEN A QUARTER OF A SECOND.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 6.—The race at Cold Springs, this afternoon, between Goldsmith Maid and Lucy, was one of the most remarkable in trotting annals. Goldsmith Maid making the fastest single heat also the best three heats on record. The race was witnessed by about four thousand people, who were fairly carried away with excitement. The horses were brought upon the track at half-past three o'clock, and after the usual preliminary exercise, took their place for the race, Lucy at the pole.

The first heat, at a quarter to four o'clock, after scoring ineffectually three times, the horses got the word, and started off neck and neck. This position they maintained for the first quarter, then the Maid gradually drew ahead, and at the half mile post had obtained a lead of a length, which she retained to the close, passing under the wire in 2:20.

In the second heat the horses got a beautiful start upon the first attempt, and passed under the wire head and head. Goldsmith Maid immediately began to draw away from Lucy, and soon had obtained a lead of several lengths. In going round the first turn she made a slight break, by which she lost half a length. Jobbie, however, quickly brought her down to the work, and with the exception of a slight skip at the last turn, which was scarcely perceptible to the spectators, she trotted the remainder of the heat in magnificent style, coming home half a dozen lengths ahead of Lucy in the unprecedented time, as announced by the Judges, of 2:17, which is a quarter of a second faster than the best time ever made by Dexter. The actual time of this heat was 2:16; but as the Judges had not agreed on the making of 2:16, another 2:16, and the third 2:17, the last was adopted in order to dispel any doubts which might result from the complication.

In the third heat the horses got off on the second start, passing the judges' stand abreast, and Lucy held the Maid closely throughout, coming in at the close half a length behind. Time, 2:20.

The result of the remarkable performance of Goldsmith Maid spread through the city like wild fire, and Budd Doble, the driver, is a lion of the first magnitude for the time being. At this juncture Frank Stivers commenced shooting, emptying four barrels of his revolver, one of the loads striking Bull Hart in the neck, and wounding him dangerously—perhaps fatally. The wounded parties were left under medical treatment, and Fitch was brought to this city and lodged in jail.

During the unfortunate affair there was no light in the room, and it is supposed that Fitch was resisting arrest, and that he was shooting at him.

A legal investigation will, of course, develop all the facts more fully; but the above is given upon the authority of an eye witness of the bloody arrest.—Lexington Statesman.

SIGNS OF THE ZODIAC.—A philosopher in the West grown into admiration of the Cherry Pectoral, writes Dr. Ayer for instructions under which sign he shall be bled, which blistered, and which vomited, and under which he shall take Ayer's Pills for an affection of the liver; also under which sign his wife should commence to take the Sarsaparilla for her ailments. He adds that he already knows to wear his calves under Taurus, change his pigs in Scorpio, cut his hair in Aries, and soak his feet in Pisces or Aquarius as their condition requires.

ANOTHER ATTRACTION.—The day of the show there was a black bear, weighing some 150 pounds, brought to town from "up Sandy," where it had been captured while young. It attracted considerable attention.

LEXINGTON RACES—HORSES NOW AT THE TRACK.

We give this morning a complete list of the races at the track which are expected to take part in next week's sport. The list, as it will be seen, contains the names of all the horses of any note in this section of the country, prominent among which are Longfellow, Enquirer, Morgan Scott, Salina, Ginger, Gaberlunzie, Nellie Gray, Exchange, and Express. It is the expectation that the two champions, Longfellow and Enquirer, will meet on Tuesday in the two-mile heats, and on Saturday in the three mile dash. They will not have it all their own way, however, if the whispering on the track be any indication, for it is intimated that Morgan Scott is in the very best condition, and ready to tackle Longfellow, in order, if possible, to revenge himself for his defeat by that horse at Nashville, where the Scout is said to have been out of condition. The absence of Littleton from Mr. Harper's stable cannot but be regretted, but the horse was returned in such poor condition from the Eastern races, that it was found impossible, in so short a time, to bring him up to the mark requisite for competition here next week. Express also is somewhat jaded after his summer work, but Exchange is all that could be desired. All the other noted horses mentioned are in splendid form, and we may confidently look forward to a brilliant week's racing.

DESCRIPTION.

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS.—A writer says: Perhaps of all the actions into which the evil passions of humanity are led, there is none more base than that of writing an anonymous letter. It is a moral assassination committed by a masked murderer—a lie without an author—the mean-spirited act of the disreputable coward, in whose heart gall has replaced the wholesome blood, and whose malice, jealousy, and revenge vent themselves in slander, would as soon trust his purse with a thief, his friendship with the hangman, take a serpent in his hand, or a liar to his heart, as hold communion of love, friendship, or interest with the despicable writer of an anonymous letter.

Seven miles from Lexington, Virginia, on the road to Staunton, stands an old and venerable edifice known as "The Timber Ridge Church." It was built in the year 1756, nineteen years before the revolutionary war. It is built of rough stone, and has a double arched entrance. The steeple which was in its construction was carried by women on pack mules, from South river, six miles distant, the men being constantly occupied fighting the Indians.

THE SECRET OF HEALTH.—First, keep warm. Second, eat regularly and slowly. Third, maintain regular bodily habits. Fourth, take early and very light suppers; or better still, none at all. Fifth, keep a clean skin. Sixth, get plenty of sleep at nights. Seventh, keep cheerful and respectable company. Eighth, keep out of debt. Ninth, don't set your mind on things you don't need. Tenth, mind your own business. Eleventh, don't set up to be a sharper of any kind. Twelfth, subdue curiosity. Thirteenth, avoid drugs.

At Lawrence, Kansas, on Sunday, while a minister was holding forth in the church, a crowd got up a cock fight in the yard. The people who had congregated in the church went out to stop the fight, but awaited until the battle was over before objecting. The minister looked out of the window at the crowd and said: "We are all miserable sinners—which whippers."

New Bedford, Mass., witnessed a medicinal sight the other day. The husband of a newly wedded woman had departed on a prolonged whaling voyage, and to propitiate Neptune or do penance for the absent one's sins, the faithful wife passed through the streets of her native village on a bonnet wheel, wearing a burthen in each hand, flanked by two women to see that the vow was kept.

A white-haired old negro preacher in New Orleans thus addressed one of the meetings of the dissatisfied colored folks last week: "What are you grumbling about? Yer all better off dan ye ever 'spected to be—dan yer deserve to be. Did yer think when Massa Linscum giv yer freedom, he was gwine to bay tickets in the Louisiana State Lottery for you beside?"

Continual smoking, it has been decided by the eminent fellows, those old cold-headed chaps that are continually experimenting in order to obtain a living, will kill a man in one hundred and sixty-seven years. We have an uncle, ninety years old, who will smoke, and it pains us beyond endurance to think that we have got to wait seventy-seven years for the fortune he is going to leave. Old people should quit smoking.

A man wrote to Horace Greeley for a situation and received the following letter in Horace's handwriting: "This is the 2000th application in a week. Go to the devil. I can't hire every d—d fool." The document was signed Horace Greeley, but no one could read it. The man presented it to the cashier, who looked it over, and handed the man $20, supposing it to be an order for his salary, and he has been drawing his salary regularly on that letter for six months.

Two darkies in the West, went out to hunt possums, &c., and by accident found a large cave with a small entrance. Peeping in, they discovered three young bear whelps in the interior.

"Look here, Sam," said one; "while I go in dar and git de young bears, you jest watch beah for de old beah."

Sam got to sleep in the sun; when opening his eyes, he saw the old beah scouring her way into the cave. Quick as a wink, he caught her by the tail and held on like a blazer.

"Hello, dar, Sam, what darkeens de hole?"

A Western paper has the following: "A lady writes to know if it is proper—that is, if it is ladylike—to retaliate by squeezing back when a man squeezes her hand. Well, you might squeeze easy—just enough to let him know that you are not disposed to be mean about it. But don't turn round and ask him 'how is that for high?' or he might think you too forward."

King Victor Emanuel, while hunting in the woods of Valsavaranza, in the valley of Aosta, recently, was fiercely beset by two wild boars, one of which ripped open with its tusks the stomach of the King's horse, the king himself barely missing a similar fate by the exertion of his suite.

A Louisville girl, whose lower disgraced himself by some unlawful deed, told the unfortunate youth that she could never marry him, but that she had $2,500 in her own right, which he could take and go away and try to redeem his character. He took the money and left. That girl loved ardently and unselfishly.

A negro State Senator of Texas made a speech the other day at Houston, in which he said that "the Democrats are no friends of ours, and the weak-kneed Republicans have fooled us. We must hereafter put our trust in God and ourselves."

A military officer wanted to compliment a negro by drinking with him. "Well captain," replied Ouf, "I've very dry, so I won't be ugly about it. Some niggers is too proud to drink with a officer—but I think a officer, when sober, is just as good as a—nigger specially if a nigger is dry."

A colporteur in the wild districts of Missouri, says that on one occasion he was compelled to accompany the gift of a book with a certificate that there was no tax collectable on it, before the suspicious Missourian would accept it at his hands.

At a Sunday school in Ripon, a teacher asked a little boy if he knew what the expression "sowing tares" meant. "Gounth I does," said he, pulling the seat of his little trousers round in front. "There's a tear my ma sewed I teared it sliding down the hill."

A remarkable family lives in Dallas county, Arkansas. The father is 108 years old the mother 106, and the two are the parents of twenty-nine children, fifteen boys and fourteen girls.

"Will you take sundings?" said a German teetotaler to a friend, while standing near a tavern. "I don't care if I do," was the reply. "Well, den, let us take a walk!"

A darky prisoner in Georgia ingeniously remarked to the jailer: "Oh, look at dat snake dey!"—and ran like the bright-eyed gazelle. Neither snake nor prisoner has been seen since.

The nautical propensities of the girls of the period are evidenced by the fact that instead of being satisfied with captivating one beau at a time, they now like to "haul two."

Guizot is making a "spurt" toward his one-hundredth birthday. He walks ten miles daily, eats enormously, and (of course) does not use spectacles.

FOR SALE.
A LARGE & SPLENDID FARM,
AND EXTENSIVE AND VARIOUS PERSONAL PROPERTY.

HEALTH REQUIRING ME TO WINTER in Florida, I will sell the Farm on which I reside, containing over seven hundred and eighty acres, situated in Franklin and Woodford Counties, Ky., five miles from Frankfort, on the Railroad to Lexington, and the Turnpike to Versailles, and I can confidently say there is no better farm in Kentucky, all things considered.

The Location is beautiful, convenient, and healthy.
The Buildings are elegant, spacious, substantial, and for all appropriate purposes; the Farm being supplied with three other comfortable dwellings and suitable buildings, besides the principal residence.

The Soil was naturally good, and has been kept in a high state of fertility, and is now ready to yield the heaviest crops of hemp, grains, and grasses.

The Fencing is of durable materials of various kinds, in good condition, with timber ample for future supply.

Society is excellent; and religious, educational, and social conveniences abundant and varied.

A Division of the Farm into four parts can be judiciously effected, so that each will have its appropriate dwelling and other buildings; and I will sell separately that part on the north side of the Railroad, having superior soil, water, timber, roads, and two sets of buildings, all in good condition.

The Terms will be made easy, after a cash payment of one half of the purchase money at the time of giving possession in October next.

Purchasers are invited to inspect the premises in person, or apply by mail for full description.

An Auction Sale will be held on the premises on the 5th of September next, consisting of Durham Cattle, "Improved Kentucky" Sheep, Cashmere Goats, Fattening Hogs, Farm and Saddle Horses, Crops on hand, and Implements of all kinds, which will be duly advertised.
